

In A Wink

Timing is wrong.
Oh, to be jobless,
to be let go.
Economy is twisted
the big boys did it again.

Greed reaches further
with the red color.
How can children
make their way?
Jerry steers his new Chrysler
back to the lot.

Another play falters on its face;
sound returns to
dissonance.
And telling cannot be avoided,
only force is positive.

Early tensions of the soul
return as a partner
looking back
to sets of confused ideas
of other universes.
Let us not forget the positive of an eternal black hole.

Relationships between us ache
while in such small distance.
Where do we go now-
not nuclear.
Let's look at frozen temperatures
that we can kick around.
